“ I met Aljen for the first time at Central High School in Philadelphia PA in our 11th grade Chemistry class. We had an overload of football players in that class, many of who teased us mild-mannered non-athletic students, but Allen got the worst of it because of his red hair, and “Bozo the Clown” nickname. This eventually led to a fight in the hallway with one of the tease leaders in the hallway. The fight was a draw, neither combatant was seriously hurt, but since Allen stood up for himself, gained a measure of respect. The teasing abated, and he later leveraged his unwanted nickname when he successfully ran for a seat on the student counsel (I voted for him). We lost touch after high school, though reconnected at high school reunions. I last met with him and his wife Ann at their condo in Mo Roseville PA a couple of years ago. His declining health prevented him from joining us at our 50th reunion, though we were able to briefly patch him in by phone during our luncheon. He was a kind and gentle soul, also a Phillies fan as I am. He will be missed by many.

“ When Allen and I were little my grandpop would take all the grandkids Barry, Annie, Allen and myself (Ellen) out on Saturday . He would take the older kids together one Saturday. The next Saturday he would take me and Allen where ever we wanted to go. We always wanted to go to Kiddie Land on Roosevelt Blvd. we would go on all the rides. Allen and I were always together we were more like siblings than cousins.
I will miss him so much. Until we meet again ❤️❤️❤️❤️💔😭

“ I am so saddened by Allen's death. He was a good friend in high school, college, and law school. We had no communication for 30 years until this year, and I was so sorry to hear about all of his health problems. He was a great guy who deserved to live so much longer. My deepest condolences to Ann and to his family. Rest in peace, Allen.

“ Before the Eagles had Big Red Andy Reid, the 233 had Big Red Allen Cohen! It was my honor, pleasure and privilege to be one of Allen's homeroom mates at Central, and, in Advanced English with him senior year. Always affable. Always emanating brilliance and intellectual curiosity. Big Red was the 1st of a handful of the "3" to generously contribute to my judicial campaign in 2011. Big Red was also among the 1st to give a hearty handshake and hug at the "3" Reunions we attended together. A true "3" hero! R.I.P. Big Red, Deepest Condolences Ann and to the family! Peace & Blessings, Coke aka Derrick W. Coker (233 Sr. Class President and pal of Big Red).
