Lori Faye Dancu, a beacon of strength and resilience, passed away comfortably on February 9, 2025, at the age of 64. Born on May 23, 1960, in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Lori's courageous battle against cancer left an indelible mark on all who knew her.

Raised in a loving home, Lori was preceded in death by her parents, Charles E. Brown and Dortha J. Brown (Charles), and her brother, Charles Brown. She is survived by her sister, Patricia Landinger. She married and lovingly raised two children in Plum borough. Lori's extended family includes the father of her children, Charles A. Dancu, her daughter and son-in-law, Nicole and Sean Siefers, her grandchildren, Madison, Brody, and Olivia, who were her world, and her partner, Randy Gardner, of almost twenty years. Tragically, Lori was also preceded in death by her son, Eric Dancu. She is also survived by numerous nieces and nephews whom she cared for deeply.

Lori built a dedicated and impactful career as an office manager and dental assistant, having studied at the Bradford Career Institute. For over 40 years, she was a cherished and familiar presence in the same dental office, welcoming every patient with her beautiful smile and infectious laugh. Her colleagues became an extended family, and she took great joy in the relationships she fostered there.

When she wasn't working, Lori cherished her love for sports and cheering on her children and grandchildren's teams. Gardening and cooking were also her passions, and she found solace and creativity in these activities.

Friends and loved ones are invited to a memorial service for Lori at Plum Creek Presbyterian Church on Friday, February 21, 2025, at 11:00 AM. The service will be followed by a luncheon.
